Press Release

NorthShore Medical Group staff officially recognized as UW Clinical Instructor Teaching Faculty.

White Salmon, WA, November 18, 2019: NorthShore Medical Group (NSMG), a community-based practice serving residents of the Columbia River Gorge, is pleased to announce that Allen LaBerge, MD has been officially recognized as a Clinical Instructor Teaching Faculty with the University of Washington School of Medicine. He joins NorthShore physicians Dr. Troy Witherrite who became a Clinical Assistance Professor with the UW in 2016, and Dr. Christopher Samuels and Dr. Liette Witherrite who became Clinical Instructor Teaching Faculty with the UW in 2018. The UW School of Medicine is consistently recognized as one of the nation's top medical schools, ranking No. 1 for primary care education for 23 of the past 25 years.

NorthShore is committed to providing comprehensive care for the communities it serves, helping individuals and families achieve good health and wellness through a network of dedicated healthcare providers recognized as leaders in their areas of practice. By partnering with UW to provide instruction and hands on training of future physicians, NorthShore is equipped with the latest medical research and techniques for providing exceptional care to our communities.

Dr. LaBerge feels honored to care for people through all stages of life. He especially enjoys working with patients and families with complicated medical needs. Dr. LaBerge enjoys spending time with his wife and two children, golfing, wood working, and hiking. He feels fortunate to work and raise a family in White Salmon.
